

Software Land Management Timber Sales

Home

Services

Real Estate

Timber Sales

Recreational Leases

About AFM

Contact AFM

American Forest Management

American Forest Management, Inc. offers a myriad of services, which fall under Operating Group categories such as: Forest and Land Management, Real Estate Services, Investment Services, Appraisal Services, Environmental Management and Technical and Data Services. AFM currently manages over 1.5 million acres for institutional investors and private non-industrial landowner clients. This full management acreage has grown significantly since the 1990's as institutional investors have increased their participation in the timberland ownership arena. Currently there is no one dominant client, as the management is owned by a broad base of large and small landowners.

Personnel

American Forest Management's extensive staff includes registered foresters with four-year degrees from SAF accredited colleges and universities, as well as advanced degrees including PhDs, MFs, and MBAs. It also employs certified general real estate appraisers and an MAI appraiser, multi-state licensed real estate brokers, timberland experts, forest data management specialists, and an experienced administrative support team.

Clients

Clients include non-industrial private forestland owners, timberland investment management organizations, conservation organizations, bank trust departments, and forest industry companies. Most of our work is focused in the South, Appalachian and Lake States regions of the United States but AFM has experience in virtually all of the US timber growing regions. AFM also has considerable international experience, including projects in Russia, the Peoples Republic of China, France, Germany, Latin America and South America.

Home

Services

Real Estate

Timber Sales

Recreational Leases

About AFM

Contact AFM

Your Best Source For

Forest and Land Management

American Forest Management

American Forest Management, Inc. offers a myriad of services, which fall under Operating Group categories such as: Forest and Land Management, Real Estate Services, Investment Services, Appraisal Services, Environmental Management and Technical and Data Services. AFM currently manages over 1.5 million acres for institutional investors and private non-industrial landowner clients. This full management acreage has grown significantly since the 1990's as institutional investors have increased their participation in the timberland ownership arena. Currently there is no one dominant client, as the management is owned by a broad base of large and small landowners.

Personnel

American Forest Management's extensive staff includes registered foresters with four-year degrees from SAF accredited colleges and universities, as well as advanced degrees including PhDs, MFs, and MBAs. It also employs certified general real estate appraisers and an MAI appraiser, multi-state licensed real estate brokers, timberland experts, forest data management specialists, and an experienced administrative support team.

Clients

Clients include non-industrial private forestland owners, timberland investment management organizations, conservation organizations, bank trust departments, and forest industry companies. Most of our work is focused in the South, Appalachian and Lake States regions of the United States but AFM has experience in virtually all of the US timber growing regions. AFM also has considerable international experience, including projects in Russia, the Peoples Republic of China, France, Germany, Latin America and South America.

Timber Sales

Home

Services

Real Estate

Timber Sales

Recreational Leases

About AFM

Contact AFM

American Forest Management

American Forest Management, Inc. offers a myriad of services, which fall under Operating Group categories such as: Forest and Land Management, Real Estate Services, Investment Services, Appraisal Services, Environmental Management and Technical and Data Services. AFM currently manages over 1.5 million acres for institutional investors and private non-industrial landowner clients. This full management acreage has grown significantly since the 1990's as institutional investors have increased their participation in the timberland ownership arena. Currently there is no one dominant client, as the management is owned by a broad base of large and small landowners.

Personnel

American Forest Management's extensive staff includes registered foresters with four-year degrees from SAF accredited colleges and universities, as well as advanced degrees including PhDs, MFs, and MBAs. It also employs certified general real estate appraisers and an MAI appraiser, multi-state licensed real estate brokers, timberland experts, forest data management specialists, and an experienced administrative support team.

Clients

Clients include non-industrial private forestland owners, timberland investment management organizations, conservation organizations, bank trust departments, and forest industry companies. Most of our work is focused in the South, Appalachian and Lake States regions of the United States but AFM has experience in virtually all of the US timber growing regions. AFM also has considerable international experience, including projects in Russia, the Peoples Republic of China, France, Germany, Latin America and South America.